OVERVIEW

The adult-use cultivator license authorizes its holder to cultivate and sell cannabis from the licensed premises of the adult-use cultivator to a duly licensed processor, microbusiness authorized to process cannabis, cooperative or collective, Registered Organization with Dispensing (ROD), Registered Organization Non-Dispensing (ROND), or a cannabis research licensee in New York State. Licensed cultivators grow the cannabis that will be used to make safer lab-tested cannabis products in the adult-use cannabis market. Note: Cultivators who wish to process their own cannabis products must obtain an adult-use processor license.

Note: License holders must meet and comply with all laws, regulations, and guidance related to the adult-use cultivator license. Failure to comply with any current or future laws, rules, or regulations issued by the Cannabis Control Board may result in disciplinary action, including, but not limited to, revocation of the license.

Businesses that have an adult-use cultivation license are authorized to:

- Grow, clone, harvest, dry, cure, grade, and trim cannabis plants, and
- Sell such cannabis to a processor, or process cannabis products under their own processor license.

Ownership Restrictions: No person, other than a passive investor, may have an interest in more than one cultivation license or any other license that authorizes cannabis cultivation. A cultivator may also hold one processor license and one distributor license, as well as a nursery license, when made available by the Office of Cannabis Management.

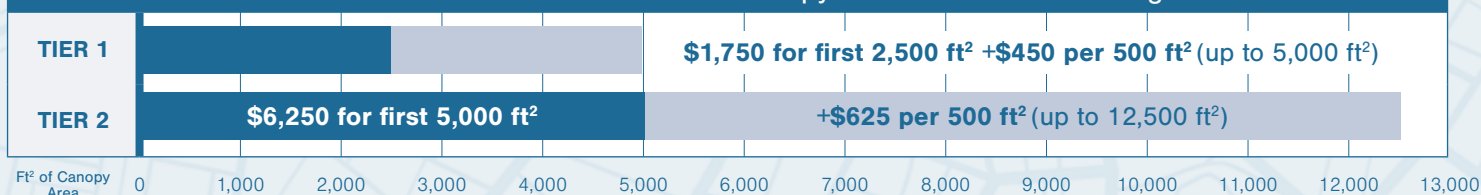

Under no circumstances, can a cultivator or its true parties of interest own or have any direct or indirect interest in a retail dispensary, delivery, or on-site consumption license.
